

Prime Novelty Statement

Reference number: DIAM2009_399

Title: Rocking Curve Imaging for Diamond Radiator Crystal Selection

Authors: Guangliang Yang¹, Richard T. Jones², Franz Klein³, Ken Finkelstein⁴, Ken Livingston¹

¹ Department of Physics and Astronomy, University of Glasgow, Glasgow, UK G12 8QQ.

² University of Connecticut unit 3046, 2152 Hillside Rd., Storrs, CT, USA 06269-3046.

³ Catholic University of America, 620 Michigan Ave., N.E. Washington, DC 20064.

⁴ Cornell High Energy Synchrotron Source, Cornell University, Ithaca, NY, USA 14853.

Corresponding author: Richard T. Jones, University of Connecticut, 2152 Hillside Road, Storrs, CT 06269-3046. tel 1-860-486-3512, fax 1-860-486-6414, email richard.t.jones@uconn.edu

Prime novelty statement: This article reports the first rocking curve measurements of coherent bremsstrahlung radiators using a high-resolution CCD camera to reveal the detailed spatial structure effects of crystal imperfections.

Authorship statement: The submission of the manuscript has been approved by all co-author(s).

Estimated word count: 3600